Transamerica Launches New Emerging Markets Fund

Transamerica announces the launch of the Transamerica Emerging Markets Opportunities fund, now available to retail and institutional investors. Transamerica selected Wellington Management Company LLP to sub-advise the fund.

Transamerica Emerging Markets Opportunities (NASDAQ: TEOIX) fund offers investors a diversified approach to investing in a global emerging market portfolio of stocks with market capitalizations in excess of $3.5 billion. Portfolio allocations are generally expected to align closely with the sector weights of the MSCI Emerging Markets Index.

The Transamerica Emerging Markets Opportunities fund is the only stand-alone retail mutual fund managed to Wellington's Emerging Markets Research Equity Core approach.

"We are thrilled to be launching this new Emerging Markets strategy with Wellington Management as the fund's sub-adviser," said Tom Wald, Chief Investment Officer for Transamerica Asset Management, Inc. "Transamerica chose Wellington as a result of our extensive sub-adviser selection process aimed at identifying best-in-class managers. Wellington has a long and successful history of managing emerging market equity portfolios and we are excited to be offering this investment strategy to investors."

Transamerica Asset Management also utilizes Wellington Management's single management strategies for its Transamerica Mid Cap Growth (NASDAQ: IMCGX) and Transamerica US Growth (NASDAQ: TDEIX) funds. Both funds have top decile* one-year performance as of December 31, 2019.

With the addition of the Transamerica Emerging Markets Opportunities fund, Transamerica Asset Management, Inc. expands its well-diversified array of mutual funds, variable annuity (insurance) funds, and exchange-traded funds (ETFs) across a wide range of asset classes and disciplines.

The price of equity securities fluctuates based on changes in a company's financial condition and overall market and economic conditions. If the market prices of the equity securities owned by the fund fall, the value of the fund will decline. The risks of investing in foreign securities are magnified in emerging markets. These may include risks related to market and currency volatility, adverse social and political developments and the relatively small size and lower trading volumes of these markets. An investment in emerging market securities should be considered speculative.

Investing in mid-sized companies involves greater risk than is customarily associated with more established companies. The securities of mid-sized companies are subject to higher volatility than larger, more established companies. The prices of securities the sub-adviser believes are undervalued may not appreciate as anticipated or may go down. Value approach carries the risk that the market will not recognize a security's intrinsic value for a long time or that an undervalued stock is actually appropriately priced.

Returns on growth stocks may not move in tandem with returns on other categories of stocks or the market as a whole. Growth stocks may be particularly susceptible to larger price swings or to adverse developments. Growth stocks as a group may be out of favor and underperform the overall equity market for a long period of time, for example, while the market favors “value” stocks.
